

Rubble Becomes Art

For Mezzo-Soprano and Piano

Dosia McKay

Rubble Becomes Art

Composed by

Dosia McKay

Originally composed for mezzo-soprano, flute (or violin), bassoon (or cello), and guitar

Transcribed for mezzo-soprano and piano by the composer

Poetry by

Sally Atkins, Valerie Foote, and Cathy Larson Sky

I	–	Dark Sister, Sing	4'55"
II	–	The Secret	4'15"
III	–	Lemniscates	4'50"

Total duration: 14'00"

Commissioned by Kate Steinbeck and Pan Harmonia in Celebration of Pan Harmonia's 20th Season

Partially underwritten by the North Carolina Arts Council Program Support Grant along with generous support from private donors

"Rubble Becomes Art" is a triptych of art songs commissioned by flutist Kate Steinbeck, founder and director of Pan Harmonia, marking the chamber music organization's 20th season. The composition sets to music the poetry of three North Carolina women writers on the themes of inclusivity and exclusivity regarding cultural, economic, and gender issues. The three poems, although distinct in their style and thematic content, present a cohesive call to healing and reconciliation, not only as it pertains to the injustices suffered by women, but the humanity as a whole.

The opening poem by Sally Atkins entitled "Dark Sister, Sing" is, in the poet's own words, "a ceremony of forgiveness." The beginning stanzas outline deep brokenness and fracture in the fabric of our society. Atkins calls it "rubble of neglect." The poem continues as a stately procession "in the rhythms of breath and seasons", with each stanza reaching deeper into reconciliation and reparation.

The second poem by Valerie Foote, entitled "The Secret", tells the story of a betrayal of a young girl whose innocence is stolen by a stranger and who, fifty years later, experiences a powerful flashback and a breakthrough.

The final poem by Cathy Larson Sky, entitled "Lemniscates", is a rich and abstract kaleidoscope of imagery from around the Earth depicting the forces of nature bringing renewal, beauty, and unity to all humankind. The last stanza of the poem contains the phrase "rubble becomes art" and it is a testament to powerful healing and transformation of a broken world.

Thus, the triptych begins with "rubble of neglect" but it ends with the transformation of rubble into art. This is what we, the artists, do. We gather the rubble in our hands and make art from it, bringing healing to the world around us and to ourselves. It is my hope that my music fuels this endeavor.

- Dosia McKay
2019

Dark Sister, Sing
– by Sally Atkins

Dark Sister, sing to me
Sing a song of longing
To see beneath the surface
Rubble of neglect
Human hunger for bread
And kindness.

Dark Sister, sing to me
A song of sacred rage
To shatter the walls
Of fear and ignorance
Refuse the bitter cup
Of violence.

Sing to us, Dark Sister
Sing a song of sadness
Then let us lick
With our own tongues
The wounds of poverty
And privilege.

Dark Sister, sing to us
Sing a song of healing
Offer prayers to Earth and Sky
In the old language of humility
In the rhythms of breath
And seasons.

Sing then to me, Dark Sister
Sing to me of wisdom
A thousand ways to listen
To stones and mountains
To the teachings of the trees
And to each other.

Sing through me, Dark Sister
A song of reparation
Teach me again
The ancient songs of welcome
The chants that open hearts
To the stranger.

Dark Sister
Make of these words
A ceremony of forgiveness
In the beauty of the singing
May we find ourselves holy
And fall in love
With the world again.

The Secret

-by Valerie Foote

Humiliation gnaws away at my belly like a blind rat, raw and senseless.
It is the sickening experience of ultimate intrusion and abandonment that i thought only comes before death.

my ghosts are the demons,
that gather to feed on my misery.

In the morning the greyness settles in the still house.

To the front door, i turn the knob into the sun.

It still lives and i am grateful.

i follow her dance to the open road.

It's then the man calls to me and his smile lulls me.

Hello peanut, he says.

i am the tiny peanut waiting to be devoured.

Why peanut? I think, over the years that have past between us.

The deserted carriage house is full of smells and stillness.

i am special i tell myself

because I caught his smile.

His fingers filter through my hair and a breeze ruffles the pansies with their frozen smiles

they will keep smiling through my shame.

Their silence will keep the secret in the years to come.

Fifty years later and I tell the gardener No,

Don't plant those pansies in my garden!

They still nauseate me with their false smiles.

They saw and they never told.

Lemniscates

-by Cathy Larson Sky

Dawn.

A mule deer and her fawn graze on fallen apples.

Our eyes meet and hold, then their long necks bend again to fruit.

My boot rakes a rain-soaked patch of mint.

Green scent rises, tinged with forgiveness.

In ancient Peche-Merle caves, hand prints in red ochre dance on scorched walls. Underground pools rise, soak crevice to ceiling with bright algae.

Soft now, a dream.

Shrill cries. A legion of eagles passes overhead, blocks the sun.

Grey feathers float toward earth.

Houses begin to shake and sing with the voices of the dead. Dishes tumble from their shelves.

In Africa they say of breakage spirit has been set free.

In the metropolis sulfurous bubbles explode.

Arctic winds clear the stink. Butterfly bushes burst the concrete, flutter with lapis, gold orange.

Jelly-roll land writhes like a glittering emerald serpent, a belly dancer's sequined girdle. Fearless children ride its waves, shouting till nightfall.

Sun returns, a kindergarten drawing, benevolent cheeks turnip-round. Its lemon rays warm all.

No more you, me, them.

Rubble becomes art. How we live.

A kind of thick bread,

perfumed with herbs.

Rubble Becomes Art

Commissioned by Kate Steinbeck and Pan Harmonia

Originally composed for mezzo-soprano, flute, bassoon, and guitar.
Transcribed for mezzo-soprano and piano by the composer.

Poetry by Sally Atkins

I - Dark Sister, Sing

Dosia McKay

♩ = 52 Evenly, as if in a procession

mf

Mezzo-Soprano

Piano

Dark Sis-ter, sing to me

mf sustain pedal as needed

6

Sing a song of long - ing To see be - neath the sur - face

8

Rub - ble of ne - glect Hu - man hun - ger for

Dosia McKay - Rubble Becomes Art, for mezzo-soprano and piano

10

bread and kind - ness

mf

12

Dark Sis - ter, sing to me A song of sa - cred

dim. mp

15

rage To shat - ter the walls Of fear and ig - no - rance Re - cresc. mp cresc. f

18 fuse the bit - ter cup Of cresc.

19

ff

vio - lence.

f mp mf

Measures 19-24: The vocal line begins with a whole note G4 with a sharp sign, followed by a rest. The piano accompaniment features a complex rhythmic pattern with triplets and sixteenth notes. Dynamics range from f to mf. Time signatures change from 3/4 to 4/4 to 5/4.

B

25

mf

Sing to us, Dark Sis - ter Sing a song of sad - ness

Measures 25-26: The vocal line continues with eighth and quarter notes. The piano accompaniment includes triplet and sixteenth-note patterns. Dynamics are marked mf. Time signatures are 5/4 and 4/4.

27

Then let us lick with our own tongues The Measures 27-28: The vocal line has a quarter rest followed by eighth and quarter notes. The piano accompaniment features sixteenth-note patterns. Dynamics are not explicitly marked but the texture is consistent. Time signatures are 3/4 and 4/4.

29

wounds of po - ver - ty and pri - vi - lege.

dim.

Measures 29-30: The vocal line continues with eighth and quarter notes. The piano accompaniment includes triplet and sixteenth-note patterns. Dynamics include dim. Time signatures are 4/4 and 3/4.

Dosia McKay - Rubble Becomes Art, for mezzo-soprano and piano

31

p mf cresc. 6 6

33

C mf

Dark Sis - ter, sing to us

f mf

35 cresc. f

Sing a song of heal - - ing Of - fer

p cresc.

36

pray-ers to Earth and Sky In the old lan - guage of hu - mi - li - ty In the

f 6 6

Dosia McKay - Rubble Becomes Art, for mezzo-soprano and piano

38 dim. mf

rhythms of breath _____ And sea sons.

6 dim. p mf

41 D mf

Sing then to me, Dark Sis - ter Sing to me of wis - dom A thou-sand

6 3

44

ways to lis - ten To stones and moun - tains To the 3 6 3

Dosia McKay - Rubble Becomes Art, for mezzo-soprano and piano

46

tea chings of the trees _____ And to each o - ther.

dim. mp

This system contains measures 46, 47, and 48. The vocal line is in 5/4, 3/4, and 4/4 time signatures. The piano accompaniment features a complex rhythmic pattern with sixteenth and thirty-second notes. Dynamics include dim. and mp.

49

mf 6 3 6 3 6 6 6 6

8va

This system contains measures 49 and 50. The piano part features a prominent triplet pattern in both hands. The upper right staff is marked 8va. Dynamics include mf.

E

51 mf Sing through me, Dark Sis - ter

mp 6 3 6 3 6 3 6 3

This system contains measures 51 and 52. The vocal line begins in measure 51. The piano accompaniment continues with triplet patterns. Dynamics include mf and mp.

Dosia McKay - Rubble Becomes Art, for mezzo-soprano and piano

53

A song of re - pa - ra - tion Teach me a - gain The an - cient songs of

3 6 6 6

3 3 3 3

3 6

3 6

3 6

3 6

55

cresc.

wel - come The chants that o - - pen

cresc.

3 3 3 3

57 hearts To the stran - - ger.

f mf 6

3 3

Dosia McKay - Rubble Becomes Art, for mezzo-soprano and piano

F

59 mf

Dark Sis - ter Make of these words a ce - re - mo - ny of for - give - ness In the 62 cresc.

beau - ty of the sin - ging May we find o - ur - selves ho - ly And fall in love

65 f

With the world a - gain. accelerando if singer can't hold